A SOLDIER OF COMMERCE

By JOHN ROE CORDON

Copyright, 1904, by F. R. Tinsdale

Trunk waited his hands for silence and, assuming a serious mien, said:

"Listen, O my people! Before we start I have something to submit to my captains. It was at the cave where we hid the treasure. I had divided it according to my custom—a portion to each of my brothers, a portion to myself, and the greater bulk to be brought here and divided among my people and to pay the tax demanded of us by the ameer. My brothers rebelled against my decision and, led by Domitan, attacked me to take my life. I was assisted by the American, as I have said, and then the Russian soldiers came and captured us all. But the crime of Domitan remains. It is the custom for the captains to settle upon a punishment."

"Kill him! Fasten him on a spear and place him high!"

These cries came from all sides. Domitan turned pale. He looked appealingly at Palpak, but the face of the chief was as stone.

"O chief!" said a captain, rising. "It is well that the Zannucks know their chief to be always safe. If he is in danger from his own brothers, then what may we expect from others? If these brothers have attempted to kill thee, they should be punished. It is the will of the people that he whom they love shall be protected and those who seek to kill him shall themselves be slain."

"It is so," said another captain, "but this took place far away. Let us give Domitan and the other brothers of our chief an opportunity to explain their conduct."

"It is well spoken," said Palpak. "Let my brother Domitan, next in the line of chiefs, who will be your chief if I should die, explain his action."

All eyes were turned toward Domitan. "O chief, my brother," he cried, "and captains of the Zannucks, hear me and believe me! When we started in our boat to the island cave to obtain the treasure and bring it here, there was no thought against our brother. We love him well, but the Zannucks ever had, and in our wine madness thought to overcome him and obtain the treasure. In our right minds we would not think of this. Humbly do we seek pardon of our chief. We promise faithful allegiance. We will fight by his side evermore."

There was a murmur, and all eyes turned to Palpak.

"It will be well if this is true," he said. "I trust my brothers again. I wish no confusion now. We will listen to meet the soldiers of the ameer."

There was little delay. Horses were being led in from nearby fields, and men with arms were gathering. On the road to the southward they formed, and it seemed a formidable array. First rode Palpak, with Harvey and Orskoff, mounted on fresh horses. After them rode a hundred men, divided in bands of twenty-five, each under a captain. Then came another hundred under Domitan, these being divided the same way.

Harvey had never experienced so difficult a ride. At times they seemed on the verge of going over a cliff and hurling themselves a hundred feet or more to certain death, but the rugged little horses seemed to know every inch of the way and found stepping places where a man could not as they wound around the perpendicular scarps of mountains.

"I wouldn't like to do this for a living," said Harvey. "I prefer to sell windmills."

"This is real mountaineering," answered Orskoff. But their eyes did not meet as they spoke, for Harvey, who was ahead, did not dare to turn his head.

In crossing table lands they traveled in sections, and Domitan often came up and spoke to Palpak. He had lost none of his surliness. Harvey could not understand why Palpak so easily forgave the man who wanted to kill him. Orskoff explained that he had talked with the captains and learned that Domitan was much admired for his many exhibitions of bravery.

"It is a good thing for us that Domitan is not chief," said Orskoff. "He hates us sorely."

They camped at night in a ravine, and the cooks of the companies prepared a meal consisting mainly of a sort of cake and coffee. After partaking of a goodly quantity Orskoff and Harvey lay down near Palpak and went to sleep.

In the morning, refreshed, the cavalcade set out and passed another day in even more difficult traveling. Another night they camped on an open field, and on the third day they came to rest on a cliff overlooking the Si-loon pass.

CHAPTER XX.

THE ATTACK ON THE CARAVAN.

IN the morning, after waiting and watching all night, the caravan was discovered slowly making its way along the pass. Palpak called Harvey and Orskoff to him at the edge of the cliff.

"We will attack the caravan in this way," he said. "My men are now divided, and one-half is under my brother Domitan, who is very brave and a good officer. His section will go up the pass to head off the camels if they bolt and run beyond our reach. My own section will attack at this spot. You will be with me."

"I should say so," said Harvey. "We want to be in this business from start to finish."

"But it would be safer to remain hidden."

"It would be impossible. Orskoff is a fighting man and would not remain idle while his sweetheart is in danger. I am not a fighting man, but I could not remain in hiding while you were fighting for the girl I love."

Domitan came up.

"It will be well for us to plan, my brother," he said. "The caravan will soon be here."

"We have already planned," said Palpak sternly. "You will take your men farther up the pass. Lie in wait there. If the camels bearing the young women escape, you can capture them. I will remain here and attack."

"Heretofore I have been asked in councils," said Domitan surlily.

"You will obey," said Palpak.

"It is evident," said Harvey to Orskoff, "that, though he forgives he does not forget."

Domitan soon had his men under way. They took a winding path through the woods leading to the pass.

"I trust there will be as little bloodshed as possible," said Harvey to Palpak. "We want to get the girls, but do not wish to commit unnecessary murder. These soldiers are simply obeying orders, as your own men are doing."

"We will save your women, but the rest of the matter must be left to us. I see by the size of the caravan that there is much treasure."

The caravan came on. Riding ahead was an officer of the ameer in brilliant garb. Following him were twenty horsemen, all well armed. Then came two camels, each led by a soldier. The first bore in its howdah the girl intended for the bride of the prince. Alma was in the second one. She still wore the uniform of the inspector general of prisons. Then came twenty more horsemen, a string of camels and mules bearing merchandise of all kinds and horses on which rode Turkish Persian and Hebrew merchants.

FIFTEEN DEATHS

Are Thought to Have Been Caused by Bad Whisky in New York.

New York, Oct. 10.—Fifteen deaths within eight days in the neighborhood known as Strykers Farms on the West Side, have started an investigation by the police and the coroner's office. Coroner Scholer says the deaths were caused by impure liquor. All the victims knew one another, and a curious circumstance is that the men had attended their friends' funerals until all were dead. Of the fifteen deaths in the eight days, four were in one house and two each in three others. All were reported to the coroner as "sudden deaths."

Captain Hickey, commanding the police precinct in which the deaths occurred, says that he has detectives out investigating them. Coroner Scholer in a statement said:

"If I can link the deaths of any of the men with any kind of whisky and find out where they bought this cheap stuff, I will take immediate action."

Coroner Recommended Arrest.

Mitchell, Ind., Oct. 10.—Dr. W. H. Dings and George Thompson have been arrested as a result of Coroner Plummer's investigation into the sudden and mysterious death of Miss Carrie Sam of this place, which occurred on Sept. 18. The men are charged with being parties to an alleged criminal operation on the young woman, which, according to the coroner's verdict, caused her death. Suspicion was aroused immediately following the girl's death and finally the body was exhumed for examination. After the coroner's verdict the two men were arrested.

A Barber Shop Tragedy.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Because he was using a pair of dull clippers, Charles Alexander was killed here Sunday by James Thomas, the man whose hair was being cut. When Thomas complained that the clippers Alexander used were dull and were pulling his hair instead of cutting it, the barber struck him. In the fight that followed Thomas got possession of the clippers and slashed his antagonist's throat. Alexander died almost instantly, his jugular vein having been severed. Both men were colored.

Forty Passengers Injured.

Spring Valley, Ill., Oct. 10.—Only two out of forty passengers escaped injury when an Illinois Valley electric railway car jumped the track on a sharp curve at Webster Park yesterday. Motorman James Ball sustained several broken ribs, while Conductor R. B. Houcks' legs and arms were broken and his lung was pierced by glass. The passengers were not seriously hurt. The car was demolished, turning over an embankment. The car was going at high speed.

Arrested on Board Ship.

Honolulu, Oct. 10.—Frank Woodbridge, who left here three years ago and who was alleged to have embezzled $3,000 from Phillips & Co., was found Sunday through a passenger in the steerage of the United States transport Logan. He was taken off the boat. It was said that he funds to Shanghai after getting the wend of his employers.

Had to Close Doors.

Boston, Oct. 10.—Great crowds went to Trinity church Sunday to hear the Archbishop of Canterbury speak. The crowd was so large that the doors had to be closed some time before the opening of the services. It is expected that the Archbishop of Canterbury will leave Boston on Thursday for New York, from which port he will sail for home.

Wife of Station Agent Confesses.

Fairmont, W. Va., Oct. 10.—Mrs. H. K. Jacobs, wife of the former station agent at Worthington, W. Va., has been arrested for being implicated in the robbery of the Baltimore & Ohio station at Worthington. In jail she confessed to Deputy Sheriff Watson that she is a member of a gang who have committed at least twenty robberies in Worthington within a few months.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE

The Forces of the Czar Finally Compelled to Take the Initiative.

GAIN A STRONG POINT

Initial Struggle of the New Movement Dislodges Japs From Valuable Strategic Position.

The Event Did Not Precipitate a Severe Engagement, But It May Mean Much.

Simultaneously with General Kuropatkin's announcement to his army that the time had come for a forward movement, there comes news that the Russians have captured Bentsiaputze, one of the strategic points held by the Japanese. The event did not precipitate a severe engagement, though the Japanese are reported to have suffered a considerable loss, the turning of their position having exposed them to a severe fire. In his address to his army General Kuropatkin asserts that the Russians have a force numerically superior to that of the Japanese, and he predicts a telling victory for his soldiers. The retirement of the Japanese on their position at Liao Yang is construed as evidencing the desire of Field Marshal Oyama to draw the Russians into an attack upon a strong defensive position. The dry weather is favorable to military operations.

The fleet blockading Port Arthur is reported to be more than usually alert, watching for British ships that are supposed to be planning to take supplies into the harbor.

FIGHTING RESUMED

Bloody Battles Are Now Promised in Vicinity of Mukden.

Mukden, Oct. 10.—The Russian forward movement has begun and Bentsiaputze has been captured with a small loss.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 10.—General Kuropatkin's order announcing his determination to take the offensive was supplemented last night by the news that an offensive movement has already been begun and that the Japanese line has been broken at Bentsiaputze. The Japanese occupied a front of about fifty-two miles, stretching from Bentsiaputze on the east through Yental and across the railway to the banks of the Hun river on the west. The Russian force had been moving south in close touch with the Japanese advance since Oct. 4. The Japanese outposts were driven back in a series of skirmishes, and on Oct. 6 the Russians reoccupied the station of Shakhe, fifteen miles south of Mukden, the railway battalion restoring the bridge across the Shakhe river the next day in order to facilitate the advance. Meanwhile General Mitschenko's Cossacks pushed southward as far as the Yental mines, defeating the Japanese in a series of warm skirmishes. The most important action, however, occurred on the Japanese right at Bentsiaputze. Here the Japanese held a strong and important position, but it seems they made the inexplicable omission to fortify a commanding hill which was the key to the whole situation. A portion of General Kuropatkin's force made a strong attack on Bentsiaputze and, taking a leaf out of the Japanese book, occupied the hill from the east and flanked the Japanese out of the town, causing a serious loss in a rear-guard fight. The Russian casualties are reported to have been inconsiderable.

While these operations are progressing south of Mukden, it is reported that two Japanese divisions and General Fugl are marching west up the Liao river and are now twenty-two miles south of Simmlin. General Kuropatkin is expected to make a similar move eastward. This statement, if accurate, leaves the two armies in the anomalous position of threatening each other's lines of communication, the Japanese by a wide turning movement, while the Russians, pushing south, have already inflicted a blow on the Japanese right and are crowding back their center along the railway.

While it is understood that Mukden is not heavily fortified, General Kuropatkin has a powerful force behind him, strongly posted at Tie pass; and if, as he asserts, the Russians are now powerful enough to assume the offensive, it is possible his advance movement will force the Japanese flanking column to withdraw in order to protect their own base. On the other hand there seems to be a possibility of one or both the Japanese columns threatening the railway behind the Russians and forcing a suspension of their aggressive movement.

JAPANESE STRATEGY

The Situation at Mukden Points to Early Action.

Mukden, Oct. 10.—A crossing of the Taitse river east of Bentshu by Russian cavalry shows that the Japanese are retiring on their position at Liao Yang and in the nest of hills east of Yental, as though they were still desiring a decisive action near Liao Yang. The Japanese, after approaching the Hun river, appear merely to hold General Kuropatkin's late battleground, where cannon firing upon the Russian cavalry occurred during the morning and afternoon of Oct. 7. The Japanese right is understood to be guarded by a Japanese force beyond where outposts of Cossacks are stationed, but no action between the Cossacks and Japanese has been reported within a week. In order to retake lost ground the Russians have now a task similar to that of the Japanese, that is to make a road over a hitherto un-mapped region, but the season being dry, is highly favorable to the task of roadmaking.

The inactivity of the Japanese is not unusual. It recalls their retirement from the vicinity of Kaichou before the battle of Vafangou. It also recalls General Kuropatkin's strategy throughout the firing in Mo Tien pass. The Japanese north front has been located on a line extending from Bentshu to the Yental coal mines and bending north in the center toward Hua pass.

Japs Keep a Lookout.

Chefoo, Oct. 10.—The increased activity of the Japanese fleet blockading Port Arthur in the stopping of merchantmen, is due to a lookout which is being kept for three British ships which, it is suspected, intend to attempt to enter Port Arthur with tinne meats and vegetables. The British steamer Victoria was stopped near Wei Hai Wei last evening and the above explanation was made to her by the Japanese boarding officer.

CURTAINED PROGRAM

"Big Guns" Promised for Indiana Will Be Held in the East.

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—It seems very probable that the Hoosier spellbinders will have ample opportunity this time to show what they can do, for the Republican state committee has been given to understand that most of the big guns have been reserved for New York. It seems that the managers of the national campaign are more concerned about New York than they are about this state, which is doubtless due to their observation of the hurricane finish the Democrats are making down East and the assurances they have had recently that Indiana is sold for the G. O. P. Just the same, the managers of the Republican campaign in Indiana are not well pleased at the wholesale cancellation of dates, as it is a difficult situation to explain to those who do not come in actual touch with what is being done at headquarters. However, Chairman Goodrich and his assistants are confident that the battle will be won. Indiana has the reputation of having as many good speakers as any state in this part of the country, and they will stir up the enthusiasm from now on. Chairman Goodrich has at least one encouraging piece of information, and that is that the national committee has reserved Senator Fairbanks for the last week of the campaign in Indiana.

Whichever party controls the legislature next winter, the session will be interesting. If the Republicans win there will be two senators to elect, as Senator Fairbanks will resign to become vice president. If the Democrats win there will only be one senator to elect, as Senator Fairbanks would continue to serve to the end of his term. It is the general understanding that Congressman Hemenway, Congressman Crumpacker, Congressman C. B. Landis and Governor Durbin will be candidates for Senator Fairbanks' position if he vacates it. There is also talk of Harry S. New, Addison C. Harris and others for the Fairbanks toga, and with such a field to draw from there is no doubt that there will be fun politically if the Republicans have two senators to elect. Major G. V. Menzies, B. F. Shively and John Worth Kern have been talked of for the senate in case the Democrats win, but M. A. Ryan, chairman of the speakers' bureau, is trying to launch a boom for Den W. Simms of Lafayette. The latter would undoubtedly prove a strong candidate, and he may enter the race if there should be a Democratic race. S. M. Ralston of Lebanon is also mentioned, so it is easy to figure that there will be as much doing if the Democrats have a chance as there will with the Republicans in the saddle.

An official of the Republican state committee declares that the organization has less money this year than in the state campaign of 1902. This is surprising, but it is probably the truth, for the Republicans have not been conducting the burrah campaign they did four years ago, when the national committee sent nearly $75,000 to Indiana. The money for the Republican campaign so far has been furnished by members of the party in this state, most of it, of course, coming from the candidates on the state ticket who probably contributed in the neighborhood of $20,000. The federal appointees also contributed liberally, regardless of the civil service ruling to the contrary. The expenses at the Republican state committee rooms probably run nearly $100 daily for help alone. The bill for postage is enormous in spite of the tons of literature that is sent out under congressional "frank." It is hard to estimate the cost of the speaking campaign, but it is very heavy owing to the large number of men who are on the stump. The Democrats are also conducting a high-priced campaign, as they have an entire floor of the Sentinel building and a large staff of employees.

DEADLY COAL GAS

Trainmen on Grand Trunk Suffocated in St. Clair Tunnel.

MET AGONIZING DEATH

Their Train Breaks and Stalls in Gigantic Tube and Poisonous Gases Smother Them.

Brave Members of Rescue Party Fearless of Death Perish Likewise.

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 10.—Six employees of the Grand Trunk railroad were suffocated to death by coal gas Sunday in the St. Clair tunnel which runs under the St. Clair river from Port Huron to Sarnia, Ont. A coal train broke in two while passing through the tunnel, and three of the train crew were suffocated while part of the train lay stalled in the tunnel. The engineer lost his life when he returned and endeavored to push the stalled cars back to safety, and two other rescuers perished in vain attempts to penetrate the gaseous atmosphere of the great tube. The train which entered from the American side of the tunnel was made up of seventeen coal cars. When it broke Engineer Coleman realized that the accident had happened and, with the cars that were still attached to the engine, steamed out of the tunnel into the Sarnia yards. He hastily detached his engine and went back into the tube for the stalled cars. When his engine reached them he attempted to push them back through the tunnel and out the American portal. The grade proved too steep, however, and the attempt was a failure. The engine and cars rolled back into the gas-laden tunnel and Engineer Coleman was suffocated at his post in the engine cab. His fireman, Fred Forester, with great presence of mind, jumped into the partly filled water tank of the engine, where there was air enough to preserve his life, although he is in a serious condition.

When news of the broken train reached the American side of the tunnel, Superintendent Beggs, accompanied by two other employees, started in on foot, hoping that the train was near enough to the entrance so that they might rescue and carry out some of the crew. They had gone but a short distance when the coal gas became stifling and Beggs succumbed. The other two rescuers succeeded in crawling to the portal of the tunnel on their hands and knees.

Meanwhile preparations were being made at the Sarnia end of the tunnel to rescue the imprisoned train crew. An engine with a party of rescuers entered the tube and had proceeded but a short distance when they found John Haley, track walker, lying unconscious on the track. He was taken out and again the engine plunged into the gaseous atmosphere. The rescuers were overcome, however, by the gas before the train was reached, and Brakeman McGrath died. Switchman Blake, who was a member of the party, after a time made another attempt to penetrate the gas, and this time succeeded in reaching the stalled engine, coupled it to the cars and ran the train out into the daylight. Conductor Simpson and Brakeman Tinsley and Gillis were found dead in the caboose. Fireman Forester was in the water tank of the engine nearly two hours before he was rescued, and his escape is little short of miraculous.

Blue Laws Disregarded.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 10.—Ordinary laws were enforced Sunday, but the police made no attempt to enforce the blue laws. Milk and ice wagon drivers and bakers were allowed to run as usual. The restraining orders obtained by the newspapers and livery stables are still in force. Drug stores were allowed to sell medicines and hotels were open, but saloons and all shops, confectionery stores and such like were closed tight. Hundreds took advantage of the interurban cars and went to Paris and Georgetown, which are open. Two baseball games outside the city limits were also enjoyed.

Drowned While Bathing.

Norfolk, W. Va., Oct. 10.—Miss Besse Wilson of Clarksburg, W. Va., niece of the late William L. Wilson, former postmaster general, was drowned while bathing at Virginia Beach Sunday afternoon.

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $50 in legal money in the United States for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Protrusion, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

I was a great sufferer for six years and doctored all the time with a number of physicians and did not receive any benefit," writes Mrs. George Sogden, of 647 Bond Street, Saginaw (South), Michigan. "I had given up all hope of ever getting better. Thought I would write to you. When I received your letter telling me of your Prescription, I followed your advice. I have taken ten bottles in all, also five vials of the 'Pleasant Pellets.' Am now regular, after having missed two years and suffered with pain in the head and back. I was so nervous, could not eat or sleep. Now I can thank you for my recovery."

Don't hesitate to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., if you want good medical advice from a fully qualified physician as to your personal good health. Such letters are always answered free of charge and confidentially. A medicine which has outlasted all others for women in the past third of a century and being recommended by all those who have used it, is a good remedy to tie to. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is purely vegetable and does not contain a particle of alcohol to destroy the blood corpuscles and weaken the system. Do not permit the dealer to insult your intelligence by suggesting some other compound which he recommends as "just as good," because he makes it himself.

The Republican opened headquarters in the Masonic Temple until after the election, the vacant room on the first floor having been secured for that purpose. Drop in when you are down town.

It is said that a great many Democrats in Indianapolis who supported Bryan for president did not take kindly to the speech of M. E. Ingalls. They remember that Ingalls was a Palmer and Buckner Democrat, and they do not now like the idea of him telling them how to vote.

GROVER CLEVELAND is in the east writing articles for the magazines, telling the people to vote for Parker because the Democratic party has returned to "sanity," having dumped Bryan and all Bryan has stood for; and Ingalls, president of the Big Four Railroad, made the same kind of talk at Indianapolis last week. Thousands of Indiana Democrats do not believe in Clevelandism and are going to see to it that Parker is worse defeated than Bryan was.

The stock argument made by the reorganizers in large cities is to the effect that provisions for the table are too high. They tell the laboring man he pays too much for his meat, flour, butter, eggs, etc. In other words the reorganizer argues that the farmer is getting too much for his stuff. It will be remembered that the only provisions that are materially higher, are those produced by the American farmer. The prices for sugar, coffee and tea remain about the same as formerly. The important question which arises is this: How many farmers can be induced to vote for Parker on the ground that the farmer is now being overpaid?

A Great Sensation.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from asthma but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter effected a complete cure. Similar cures for consumption, pneumonia, bronchitis and grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c, and $1.00. Guaranteed by W. F. Peter Drug Co. Menzie's Meeting.

G. V. Menzie, of Mt. Vernon, who is trying to pose as a candidate for the senate, was the Democratic attraction here Saturday night. The band and drum corps were out and labored nobly to draw a crowd. The speaking was in Society Hall and when Joe Shea introduced the speaker the hall was pretty well filled but before he got through they were leaving in droves. When he finished nearly half the chairs in the hall were vacant.

Mr. Menzie's speech was characterized chiefly by his coarse personalities, a lack of argument, and by a bitter attack on the colored race. It was a disappointment to the Democrats who had expected to hear a dignified and forceful speech.

His attack on the colored people was very bitter. He tried to make out, after the fashion of Tillman, of South Carolina, that the colored men are not worthy of citizenship and should be disfranchised. One would not expect to hear a more bitter arraignment of the colored race from an old time slave driver of the South than was uttered by the Democratic speaker here last Saturday night.

Such speeches do not help the waning cause of Democracy any whatever.

MARRIED.

WETZEL-FOSTER.

Sunday evening at 6 o'clock Newt Wetzel and Miss Maud G. Foster were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Foster at Beech Grove. The ceremony was pronounced by Rev. I. C. Overman in the presence of about 50 relatives and friends. Refreshments were served after the ceremony. The wedding presents were numerous and valuable. The bride and groom are both well known and highly esteemed young people and have the best wishes of a host of friends. They left on a wedding trip to Louisville and Cincinnati. They will make their home on his father's farm in Scott county.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, is narrated by John Oliver, of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain constantly in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed, at W. F. Peter Drug Co.

Campbell's Creek, see White. o15d

There is one rational way to treat nasal catarrh, the medicine is applied direct to the effected membrane. The remedy is Ely's Cream Balm. It restores the inflamed tissues to a healthy state without drying all the life out of them and it gives back the lost senses of taste and smell. The sufferer who is tired of vain experiments should use Cream Balm. Druggists sell it for 50 cts. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York, will mail it.

Miss Edna Artukewich, who was here to attend the Wetzel-Foster wedding left for her home at Fairbury, Ill., this morning.

Church Dedicated.

The New Methodist church at Brown's Corner was dedicated Sunday. Dr. J. A. Sargent, of this city, preached and made the appeal for funds to dedicated free of debt which was done. It was necessary to raise over $200.

Wins by a Narrow Margin as Our Next Story.

The Filigree Ball, 114 The Heart's Highway, 107 Over the Border, 57

The contest for the next continued story closed at noon today. The last day resolved itself into a race between "The Filigree Ball" and "The Heart's Highway," the former winning by a margin of seven votes.

The new story will start next Friday evening, immediately after the close of "The Soldier of Commerce," which is now running.

Anna Katherine Green, the author of "The Filigree Ball," is a strong writer, and the fact that "The Millionaire Baby," from her pen, was published in the Ladies Home Journal the past summer, is sufficient guarantee of her standing as an author. Interesting Meeting.

The spiritualist meeting was very interesting last night in the C. A. R. hall. About 200 were turned away on account of lack of seating room. One feature was the large number of men in the audience. Two-thirds of the congregation were men. The Rev. Frank T. Ripley handled his subject, "After Death, What?" in a masterly manner. He also gave several convincing tests of spirit return. Services next Sunday evening at 7:30.

Pleasantly Entertained.

A crowd of young people were pleasantly entertained at the home of Miss Rose Himler, corner Sixth and Broadway, Sunday, in honor of her cousin, Miss Nellie Riddle, of Indianapolis. What is More Precious

To the old folks than their eyes? How many are plodding through life with lenses that pull and hurt, and others with none—perhaps better off than those which are picked up in a haphazard way.

At the very time when they should be in possession of all the benefits that can be given them, they are too frequently neglected, and without comparison how are they to know?

If you could witness the joy and happiness brought to just one of these old people when fitted with proper lenses, you would see to it that your parents had the best to be secured.

We make free examinations—Mr. and Mrs. Harsch.

MERCURY

A POOR CRUTCH.

Experience is a dear teacher, as those who pin their faith to Mercury find out sooner or later. This powerful poison combined with Potash, is the treatment generally prescribed for Contagious Blood Poison, but the result and disappointment is the inevitable result. These minerals drive in the sores and eruptions, and apparently the disease is gone and the patient believes the cure permanent, but soon learns better when the old symptoms return almost as soon as the treatment is left off. You must either keep the system saturated with mercury or endure the tortures of sore mouth, ulcerated throat and the mortification that one naturally feels when the body is covered with disgusting sores, rashes, copper-colored blotches and other aggravating symptoms of this vile disease.

Mercury and Potash are poor crutches, and their use eventually breaks down the constitution, ruins the digestion and cause the bones to decay. S. S. S., a guaranteed purely vegetable remedy, is the only antidote for Contagious Blood Poison. It destroys every atom of the deadly virus, overcomes the bad effects of the mercury and cleanses the blood and system so thoroughly that never after are any signs of the disease seen. Nor is the taint ever transmitted to others.

We will send free our book on Contagious Blood Poison, which is interesting and contains full directions for treating yourself at home. Medical advice or any special information desired given without charge.

O. Burdick, of Indianapolis avenue says: "I procured Doan's Kidney Pills sold by C. W. Milbous for Mrs. Burdick who suffered from a distressing aching in her back and occasional dizziness. A movement is already being started to head off any legislation favorable to Sunday baseball. The State Baptist association has taken the initiative in the opposition. It is probable that other religious societies will follow the example, so the Sunday baseball men will no doubt be confronted by a well-organized lobby right at the start.

Arrests May Follow.

Goshen, Ind., Oct. 10.—J. W. Robinson, local freight car inspector for the Lake Shore railroad, was instantly killed while inspecting some cars. He went under the train, placing a danger signal before he did so. A switching crew bumped a cut of cars into the train and Robinson was doubled up and crushed so that his back was broken. He died immediately. The coroner is investigating and arrests may follow.

FEARS OF MURDER

Indiana Young Man Mysteriously Missing In Kansas Town.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED

As Station Agent at Winfield He Had Caused the Arrest of Some Bad Characters.

Had Left Wabash But a Few Weeks Ago a Happy Bridegroom.

Wabash, Ind., Oct. 10.—Word has been received in this city stating that Guy Gardner, aged twenty-five years, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gardner of this city, was believed to have been murdered in Winfield, Kan., Wednesday night.

He recently resigned his position as ticket agent for the Big Four in this city to accept like position with the Santa Fe & Topeka road at Winfield. Part of his duty was to meet a 9 o'clock train on that road each evening and sell tickets. Wednesday night, in company with his wife, he went to the theater, but left to meet the train. After closing his office he stepped out and that was the last seen of him.

He had caused the arrest of some negroes there for breaking into cars, and it is the theory that they are responsible for his disappearance. Three were arrested and are now in jail at Winfield, charged with his murder. He was married a few weeks ago to Miss Edwina Whitecraft of this city.

HE LET THEM GO

Judge Believed Violators of Injunction Did Not Understand.

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—Judge Anderson of the federal court heard the arguments on the question of granting a permanent injunction against the striking glass blowers at the Macbeth-Adams plant at Elwood. The temporary injunction was made permanent and the men who disobeyed the terms of the temporary injunction were allowed to go on the promise that there would be no further trouble.

On complaint of the owners of the plant Judge Anderson, on Oct. 1, issued a temporary injunction against the strikers picketing the plant. This injunction was served at once and in response to a summons a number of the strikers later appeared in court. Although it was clearly shown that the strikers had kept pickets about the plant after the injunction had been served and that they had done everything in their power to interfere with the management of the plant, yet Judge Anderson did not arraign them for contempt, as he was convinced that they did not understand what was meant by the injunction.

Race Feeling at Carlisle.

Carlisle, Ind., Oct. 10.—The feeling against negroes in Carlisle, which was demonstrated a short time ago when a mob attacked the colored families living here and drove them out of town, broke out again Saturday, when the home of William Butler was bombarded. Windows in Butler's house were demolished by rocks hurled by the mob and other negroes who had been permitted to remain in the town were also attacked in the street by boys. The town is excited over the attack upon the negroes, and sentiment among the better class of people is against the action.

Held on Grand Jury Indictment.

North Vernon, Ind., Oct. 10.—Upon a grand jury indictment charging him with the murder of Mahlon Wells, Fred Willman, a wealthy farmer, was rearrested and returned to jail, from which he was released a few weeks ago on $25,000 bail. Mahlon Wells was shot from ambush Saturday night, Sept. 3, while on his way from Cincinnati to visit his wife and children. He died within a few minutes and was not able to give any information as to who did the shooting.

Fell From Freight Train.

Dunkirk, Ind., Oct. 10.—The mangled body of John D. Bryer was found on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks near the Dunkirk roller mills. The general supposition is that he boarded a freight, in trying to get off of which he was thrown under the wheels and instantly killed. He was a well-known and highly respected citizen and was a member of the Odd Fellows and Red Men lodges. A widow survives.

Cracksmen Work at Freeland.

Freeland, Ind., Oct. 10.—While all the residents of this village were asleep burglars entered the bank of Young, Hamilton & Co., blew open the safe, grabbed up $4,000 in cash and as yet no one has found a trace of them.

Caught on the Crossing.

Valparaiso, Ind., Oct. 10.—William Reynolds, a business man, was struck by a train while driving in from the country and killed. He was forty years old and leaves a family.

Victim of Hydrophobia.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 10.—Harry Dishner, thirty years old, who was bitten by a mad dog several weeks ago, is dead of hydrophobia.
